

VOODOO ARMY

SUPERNATURAL THRILLER

LOGLINE

When a struggling New Orleans architect turns to voodoo for revenge, his rage manifests as an army of living dolls that begins abducting everyone who has crossed his path—while a photographer with a mysterious connection to the supernatural becomes the prime suspect and races to stop him before the army is unleashed on the city.

ACT I - THE SPELL IS CAST

Photographer Henry Delaney covers a New Orleans awards gala where architect Jimmy Buckner is publicly passed over by a rival who stole his work. After a brutal mugging outside Henry's apartment, Jimmy turns to voodoo priestess Lia for justice and revenge. The spell awakens something ancient. Soon people connected to both men begin disappearing.

ACT II - THE ARMY GROWS

As Henry and reporter Cat Pearson investigate, they uncover corruption, a hidden past, and a link between the missing and Henry's photographs. Jimmy—revealed to be Billy Brady, survivor of the family massacre—goes under the spell. Living voodoo dolls form an army of everyone who has wronged him. A storm approaches. Jimmy prepares to unleash his army.

ACT III - THE RECKONING

Henry, Cat, Lia and neighbor Ruth race to stop Jimmy before the ritual is complete. Confronted on the river's edge, Jimmy tries to release the army. The spell is broken—but not before Jimmy is shot and the dolls scatter into the water. Henry is cleared of the crimes. In the final scene, the mysterious girl named Claire places a doll of Jimmy into her dollhouse.
